This zine documents Theatrum Mundi's 2021 Summer School, providing a brief snapshot of the readings, workshops, conversations and ideas that were shared.

The Summer School provides the premise for Theatrum Mundi's Cohort which will be launched in 2022, a new intergenerational and multidisciplinary educational platform for practitioners at different stages of their careers. It will act as both a testbed to share and discuss current research streams and as a means of generating new ideas that will inform Theatrum Mundi's future programming. The Cohort will be an opportunity to develop a curriculum that proposes new methodologies for peer to-peer learning and knowledge sharing. This zine forms the first edition of an open source, work-in-progress educational library, sharing fledgling ideas, unfinished drafts, exploratory methods, and innovative fieldwork.
